

BUSINESS IS GOOD FOR THE INSURANCE FIRMS IN IRELAND

Companies Do Land Office Business Insuring Against Loss Through Civil War

DUBLIN.—Insurance companies, mostly English, have done a brisk business in Ireland in issuing policies against loss due to civil commotion.

Everybody has an uneasy feeling that his house is not safe from the consequences of the conflict between the government and its enemies. Many persons have suffered whom nobody intended to injure. The market for insurance policies, therefore, has been very active.

The ordinary fire and accident policies expressly exclude damage from the results of civil war or disturbances of public order which the new policies are meant to cover. It has been discovered, however, that a clause in many of the new policies might render them valueless and leave a victim who had paid his premium no better off than before.

It is provided that in order to recover a loss the sufferer must be able to show that neither he nor any of his servants has been a member of an illegal organization responsible for disturbance. On the face of it this seems reasonable, but there are very many individuals and still more important firms who could not answer for the political affiliations of all the members of their staffs.

Lately some of the most respectable firms in Dublin owned by Unionists and wealthy men connected with politics have been raided by the forces of the crown in search of suspected employees whose private affairs were entirely unknown to their employers. If these employers started rooting out the Sinn Féiners from their staffs the popularity thereby provoked might easily ruin their business. The facts throw an interesting sidelight on the ordinary conduct of life in Ireland under guerrilla warfare.

Trouble has arisen by the action of the British Commission which since the great war controls the sugar supply. It has issued instructions to English wholesalers that they must not, while the present disturbances continue, supply Irish sugar retailers with any sugar except for cash down, and this order applies to firms whose solvency is undoubted.

PROTECTION FOR THE QUAIL

Efforts are being made by the farmers in the state of New Jersey to have the legislature to pass a measure which will give the quail the protection of a long closed season. The state game has entered the suggestion and they are said to be desirous of the farm in protecting them against insect pests more than on the broilers of clubs and city home kitchens. The quail kill this season is said to have little less than exterminated the birds. This happened despite the posting of thousands of acres of land by farmers who undertook to prevent the slaughter by excluding hunters from their fields. It is understood that should there develop a successful opposition to the closed season for quail when the project comes up at Trenton that the county granges acting in co-operation will secure the closing of practically every farm in South Jersey to bird hunters. This would leave only those tracts controlled by hunting clubs open and as the latter are really limited in area as compared with the territory which has been open to hunters in the past such action, it is said, would result quite as satisfactorily as would the enforcement of a protective game law.

BRITAIN PLANNING HUGE POWER PLANT ON RIVER SEVERN

Project Greater than that at Niagara to Cost Over Thirty Million Pounds

LONDON.—The British Ministry of Transport has just made public a scheme to harness the tidal waters of the river Severn at a cost of 30,000,000 pounds, and to erect a power plant greater than that of Niagara Falls. The Severn divides England from Wales.

The project is the outcome of the efforts of Sir Alexander Gibb, chief engineer of ports construction in the British army during the war and builder of the great naval dockyard at Rosyth. It is calculated that the power plant could produce 1,000,000 horsepower at its peak load capacity and that it would save 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 tons of coal a year. It is claimed that it would revolutionize the whole industry of the west of England and even supply London with cheap electric current.

A concrete dam would be placed across the river creating a locked basin 27 miles square in extent into which vessels could pass through a channel. It is estimated that the undertaking would provide work for 250,000 men for seven years.

In the spring tides the Severn rises 28 feet, the second highest tide after the Bay of Fundy. The fact that tidal waters have never yet been used for the generation of electricity on such a vast scale, coupled with the big estimated cost of the scheme, make engineering experts cautious in expressing views as to its feasibility. The Times editorially before the project as "somewhat flamboyant." The consent of Parliament must be obtained before the scheme can be put into operation.

"Shameful Neglect" Of Our Disabled Dough-Boys

NOT niggardliness but mismanagement is behind the fact that thousands of our disabled soldiers of the Great War "are still waiting, exploited, neglected, forgotten, for the draft of honor to be redeemed." The Public Health Service, according to Harold A. Littlefield, of the New York Evening Post, is months behind in dealing with urgent appeals from disabled soldiers needing treatment, as is also the Bureau of War-Risk Insurance in payments. The Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph, quotes Col. Frederick W. Galbraith, Jr., National Commander of the American Legion, as saying that "10,000 disabled veterans are quartered in cellars, poor-houses, and insane asylums."

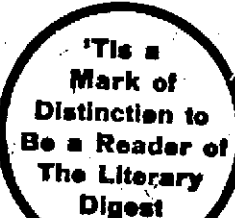

The leading article in THE LITERARY DIGEST this week, January 22, 1921, presents facts that will astonish the American public and which have been incorporated by the American Legion in a dispassionate memorial to the President, the President-elect, the Congress, and the people of the United States. The causes of the present regrettable condition and a remedy for it are carefully shown.

NOT EVERY ONE

Not every one that saith unto Me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of My Father which is in heaven.—Matthew 7: 21.

Of Universal Application

DON'T you like this?

The aim of a poet should be to refrain from writing poetry—except upon extreme provocation.

Old Bert Taylor exhumed it from a recondite periodical known as The New Cambridge, and deathlessly embalmed it in the Line. It is a rare gem of human wisdom, worthy of such immortality as it thus achieves. And not less so because it can be applied "in principle" to all the other arts and graces. It applies with equal force to after-dinner speakers, lawyers, surgeons, painters, plumbers, politicians, profiteers or what have you. Try it on your transposer—select any vocation or avocation and substitute the title of the practitioner and his activity in the place of the poet and his—and it shines forth no less radiantly common-sensical. Except, of course, in the case of editors. There's no such foolishness as waiting for inspiration to write editorials. Not with the composing-room and make-up man shouting the battle-cry of "Copy!" while the press-room looks at its watch every ten seconds. But then we are only the exception that proves the rule.

A New Problem

THE new Republic of Poland is going through an experience that sharply parallels that of the United States in the days of Washington, Hamilton, and Jefferson. She is framing her national constitution, and having just as much difficulty in perfecting it as the American colonies did.

The Polish constitution, however, has many new features unknown in the time of the American founders. Woman suffrage and the initiative and referendum are among these, while drastic measures covering child welfare and child labor legislation are being advocated.

The present grave situation among Polish children has alarmed the entire country and joined all political factions in demanding laws safeguarding the young generation. According to the reports of American Red Cross medical inspectors, there are two million children in Poland today needing medical attention. Twenty per cent of the total child population of the country is crippled, defective or tubercular from malnutrition.

It's the Bear!

FRANCE announces that she is prepared to enter into a disarmament arrangement, but insists that Germany be fully disarmed as a condition precedent to going into the deal.

Russia warns the world to keep its ships at least twelve miles from the Russian coast, notifies France that her part in an encounter between French and German vessels is regarded as an act of war.

Russia is said to be preparing for an enormous offensive against Poland. Russia's army is recognized as the most formidable in the world at the present moment. The expulsion of naval ships of other countries from the vicinity of the Russian coast is said to be part of an effort to cover up Russian preparations for war.

Isn't it possible that the powers, watching German military affairs with caution, have their eye on the wrong objective. It would seem that Russia, rather than Germany, presented the real occasion for going slow about throwing away the big guns.

A Socialist

MANY very earnest Americans shudder at the name of socialism. In New York there are political leaders who defend the expulsion of socialists from the legislature. Their theory is that socialism is not a political party, but a form of government, and that he who subscribes to a form of government different from that we now have, is a public enemy. That he would make the change by means of the ballot is an insufficient defense in the minds of these patriots.

But in France a socialist has been made premier. The French premier is the most powerful official in that republic. The new socialist premier, Briand, will have charge of the nation's foreign policy.

What would this country say were Harding to name a socialist as secretary of state, to have charge of our foreign policy?

But there are many sorts of socialists. The premier of France forms the French cabinet, just as our president forms a cabinet. The new socialist premier has included every political group in France in his cabinet, excepting only monarchs and red communists.

Now, that's different! Here is a broad-minded socialist. Were an American socialist elected to the presidency he would not call a democrat, a republican, a greenbacker and a farmer-laborite to his cabinet.

Nor will Mr. Harding.

How's Your Vocabulary?

THERE have been different estimates placed on the number of words in the English language. But 300,000 is generally accepted as a fair estimate.

Of these 300,000 not more than ten per cent are in everyday practical use. Milton, who wrote "Paradise Lost" had a vocabulary of not more than 7,500 words. Shakespeare, who wrote and wrote and wrote, had command of 15,500 words.

But they were exceptional men. The highly cultured man or woman of this day rarely has a vocabulary exceeding 5,000 words. And very seldom, it is said, will be found a person in the ordinary walks of life who is able to use more than two or three thousand of the 300,000 words in the language. On the other hand there are people who are of such a type that they are limited conversationally to the use of no more than 300 words.

Where do you rank? Are you up there with Shakespeare? Do you fall in the 5,000 class? Or are you just one of the "ordinary folks" with a talking asset of between 2000 and 3000 words?

Our Disabled Soldiers

THE American Legion has put it up to congress to redeem the country's reputation for due appreciation of the sacrifices involved in military service. The soldiers' bonus law is still pending. Farms for soldiers, carried far in Canada, are still a pigeon-holed proposal in the United States. But the Legion remains patient upon these subjects. The thing that has stirred it to somewhat bitter protest is neglect of soldiers partly or entirely incapacitated for self-support by wounds and disability incurred in fighting for the nation. Many it asserts are found in actual destitution. Many lack medical or surgical aid that, given in time, might restore them. The whole matter has been neglected for want of adequate means to reach the sufferers, because of the intervention of red tape, and perhaps for lack of any especial earnestness in the effort to locate and help the sufferers.

Doubtless the Legion apprised itself fully of the facts before approaching the government. The country must accept its representations as substantially the truth. And, as Americans and patriots, we must all share the feeling that until full relief is afforded and full reparation made, the national honor is not unsullied.

In Ye Olden Times

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

La Crosse county prohibitionists will hold a reorganization meeting in this city all day tomorrow on the occasion of the visit to the county of one of the national leaders of the party, Hon. Quincy Morrow, of South Dakota. Morrow will not only attend and participate in the meeting but will speak in various towns throughout the county.

At a recent meeting of the consultants of the diocese of La Crosse held at the home of Bishop James Schwabach, Rev. Dr. R. B. Condon, pastor of St. Mary's church of this city, was appointed legal advisor of the diocese.

If the requests of Probate Judge John Brindley are granted the probate court will be enlarged to suit the demands of the increasing business of that office. La Crosse county officials complain that the probate court is cramped for want of room and it is possible a door may be cut from the county court into the vault of probate court turning the vault into a private office for the judge and using the rest of the space for the office of the clerk of the probate court, John Costley.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

"The enormous decrease in the amount of lumber cut in this city in 1900 plainly shows that La Crosse is no longer a lumbering town."

Mr. H. Greadale, a prominent attorney and superintendent of the Sparta water department, was in La Crosse yesterday looking up forms and regulations for brick paving to be done in Sparta during the coming year under the new state law. Most of the streets in the business portion are to be paved.

Articles of incorporation have been filed with Register of Deeds Larson, creating what is to be known as "St. Joseph's Priest Fund." It is an organization of the La Crosse diocese and the Rt. Rev. Bishop Schwabach is to be president ex-officio. The object of the organization is to assist financially and support superannuated or indigent Roman Catholic priests. The organizers are Rt. Rev. Schwabach, Visar General Kramer, Dean William White and the Rev. Messrs. Bauer, Stryker, Blashke and Weidman.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

There is much opposition to the bonding of the city for the building of a new city hall, which has created quite a stir and a remonstrance which has been sent out has been signed by two hundred prominent business men. To meet this opposition a dozen petitions have been circulated favoring the building of the hall. Those who oppose building a city hall now have for their chief argument that a city hall is not needed half as much as a good system of water works. Hartwell's orchestra left this morning for Arcadia where it will furnish the music for the annual Burns' festival to be held at that place.

The work of macadamizing the bridge approaches is being done at a rapid rate. Mr. Weston, the contractor, now has forty teams and seventy men at work. Those at work are divided into two gangs, one in charge of Mr. Weston, and the other under the supervision of his son, Frank Weston.

FINDERS KEEPERS

By HENRY FRANK.

Ronald Young was bored. He had been at the Lakelands Summer Hotel for three days, and had exhausted of the much-advertised pleasures of that resort on the evening of the second twenty-four hours. He had tried the golf course, to discover that it was "under construction" for most of its extent; there was no one, apparently, who cared to play tennis; there were plenty of places to ride, but no horses; and the swimming, despite the flamboyant title of the hotel, was negligible. Hence the ennui of Ronald Young, who sat in the lobby, which was mainly peopled by elderly women and frothy children, and wished that he had never decided to come to Lakelands for his vacation.

As his pessimistic gaze roved over the rocking chairs and potted greenery of the lobby, it was arrested by the girl—who was wandering about with a peculiarly vacant look on her face.

Her eyes roved this way and that on the floor, the mahogany chairs, the green pots even the children. From time to time she approached one of the tenants of the rocking chairs and put a question, to which, apparently, she received always a negative reply. For her air of bewilderment deepened and the little wrinkle of worry between her eyebrows grew in intensity.

Ronald watched her with interest. Evidently she had lost something—ah! She had addressed him.

"Beg your pardon, but—have you not seen my handbag? I lost it yesterday, and I can't seem to find it, and I am awfully worried about it. It has some valuable papers in it. You haven't seen it anywhere, have you?"

Ronald Young hesitated for just the fraction of a second before he replied. "No, I haven't seen it. But you must let me help you hunt for it. I'm afraid you won't get much help from the rest of the people here. Have you noticed the hotel officials?"

"Yes, but they can't find it. I must have it back." Her eyes filled with tears. Ronald sprang into action energetically.

"Now you go to your room and I'll find that bag if it's to be found anywhere within two miles of here," he said. "Don't worry about it—just go ahead and leave it all to me."

The thankfulness of his manner carried her with it.

"Thank you so much!" she breathed. "I'm tired—I've been looking all over the hotel for that bag, and I'm afraid I've gone. People haven't helped me a bit—that is, until you came along. But I'm afraid it's an awful trouble for you."

"Not in the least," declared Ronald, wondering why the entire force of the hotel as well as all the guests hadn't sprung to assist the distress of this charming person. "I'll find it—when I do, to whom shall I return it?"

"My name's Marjorie Warren," said his new acquaintance. "I'm living with my mother in room 112. And you will tell me when I have to thank for being so kind?"

"In Ronald Young—but you'd better keep your finger till I return in triumph with the guardian I go to seek."

She laughed a lively, delicious laugh. "Very well, then, I'll wait. But I hate to be kept waiting." A flashing smile and she was gone.

Left alone in the lobby Ronald Young did not immediately set about indulging in any violent exertions in search of the missing handbag. Instead of leaping up and running violently about, overturning chairs and spilling indignantly old ladies on the floor, which is what one might be expected to do when sent on a quest of that sort, Ronald indulged in most unusual tactics.

He sat quiet for a time, took a cigarette, lit it and took two or three quiet puffs; then he threw the cigarette accurately into the pot which supported one of the palms. Then he rose and did a couple of fancy clog steps, to the great admiration of the surrounding children, turning to look at them, while, after which he left the room, his face wreathed in smiles. This is not what might be naturally looked for from a young man confronted with a problem.

In fact, Ronald Young seemed rather like a young man who had solved some tangled problem and was now out to solve his actions on leaving the room were equally mystifying. He betook himself to the bosky dell that were to be found near the lake where he had, until nearly dinner-time, smoking cigarettes and apparently admiring the beauties of nature.

That evening he went to the piazza in search of Marjorie. He found her a disconsolate little figure seated in a low wicker chair. Her mother, who apparently was nowhere to be seen, Ronald approached. "I've found the bag," he stated without preliminary skimming.

The girl gave a little gasp. She reached out and almost snatched the bag from his hands, and her voice was quivering as she said, "Oh, how can I ever thank you? I just couldn't have stayed here another day without this bag. Where did you find it?"

"On the floor in the lobby, under a chair."

"Isn't that strange? I know I looked at the floor—and every single chair—and I didn't find it."

Ronald hesitated, then he smiled. "You didn't look at it, because it wasn't there when you looked. You dropped it last night and I picked it up after you had left the room. I didn't have any idea who had lost it, and I was going to turn it in at the desk, but—"

"But what?"

"Well, I thought maybe—maybe I'd like to meet whoever owned it. And when you came around this morning, I well, I wanted to talk to you, and I was afraid that if I gave you the bag right away you'd run away from me, and I wouldn't see you again. So I did it for you. And after all, I did find it—and you aren't very

DOG STORIES

Dicky Goes to Church

When I was a small boy my father got a dog for me. At about the same time an evangelist came to our town, and my folks-entertained his singers in our home. These folks named our dog "Dicky" and took him frequently to church when they went to practice. Dicky would howl mournfully when they would play the piano.

One evening when a church service was in progress Dicky decided he would attend. He reached, the church during the song service. Up to the very front he went and sat down on his hind legs in front of the one who was leading the singing and commenced to howl.

The Magnetized Ruler

Fasten a black silk thread to the knees of your trousers. Have it of such length that when you spread your legs apart slightly, the thread will become taut.

Take up a ruler, or some similar object of greater length if you find a ruler to be too short. Pretending to magnetize it, make various gestures over the ruler. Lean it against the invisible black thread where it will stand in an upright position.

A little "talk" to accompany this trick is almost necessary to its success.

"Do you mean to say that you know where it was all the time I was worrying myself to death? Do you know that you are a very wicked young man?" Ronald saw that her eyes were laughing, and this statement of the depravity of his soul caused him to burst into a joyous cackle.

A second measure was taken two weeks later and all but five of the 502 had gained in weight.

Milk is being furnished by the Red Cross chapter to undernourished pupils and arrangements are being made with lunch room owners to provide at least one hot dish daily for pupils who cannot take their noonday meal at home.

PARTY STUNTS

Ask each guest to bring to the party a picture of himself when a baby. The name of the owner should be written on the back of each picture to avoid a mixup after the game has been played.

Place the pictures upon the wall in a row about level with the eye. Number each one. Put the whole set of numbers on some slips of paper. One of these slips with a pencil is handed to each guest with the instructions that he is to guess the identity of as many of the babies as possible. He knows, of course, that each guest was once one of the babies.

The person who guesses the greatest number of names correctly should be given an award.

DRESSES BEING MADE OF OLD SILK STOCKINGS

Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh trying silk stocking dress on Alice Nielsen, prima donna.

BY CORA MOORE.

New York's Fashion Authority. A dress made from the tops of old silk stockings!

And smart, too: Who would have believed it?

Nobody, if Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh, incidentally one of the wealthiest women in this country, hadn't proved it by actually constructing the dress out of old black silk stockings.

Several years ago Mrs. Walsh turned the entire ball room floor of her Washington home into a factory.

Loaves of sewing machines hum there daily, reconstructing out of old clothes comfortable and decent garments for Europe's naked.

Mrs. Walsh acts as personal superintendent of this charitable industry.

Thousands and thousands of garments of every description have been sent overseas, and the work is still going on. It was started as a war measure, but is now being continued in memory of Mrs. Walsh's grandson, little Viscount Walsh Maclean, the "millionaire baby," killed by an automobile two years ago.

The silk stocking frocks Mrs. Walsh designed as "best dresses" for destitute French girls. Many of these are being made—the ruined villages of France their destination.

Miss Alice Nielsen, the prima donna, is Mrs. Walsh's "first aid," New York representative, and shipping manager.

BALTIMORE REPORTS GREATEST INCREASE IN TEACHERS' WAGE

Survey of Teachers' Federation Shows Average Raise of $600 for Maryland City

CHICAGO, Ill.—With an increase of $600 per year to the average teacher Baltimore is shown to lead the list of American cities in amount of salary advances to be granted to public school workers during the past year, according to a survey of the national educational situation just completed by the better schools service, a bureau of the American Federation of Teachers.

This bureau has been compiling statistics and reports here since the teacher shortage became acute. Philadelphia is shown to bring up the rear of all cities, its increase being only from $50 to $120 per year.

The average increase for cities of more than 100,000 population is listed at $365 per year, for cities of between 50,000 and 100,000 three hundred and thirty-two dollars, in cities of 25,000 to 50,000, three hundred and seventy-one dollars.

"Reports from all over the country show that the general advance in salaries still leaves teachers more inadequately paid than previous, to 1914," said William T. McCoy, director of the survey in making the first findings public.

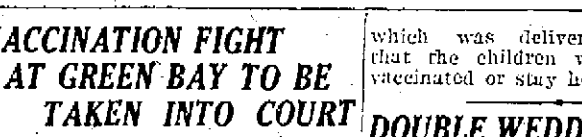

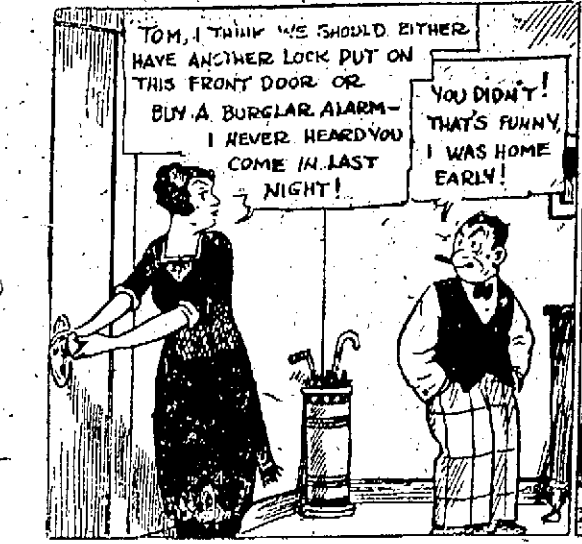

"Teachers are still at the bottom of skilled workers in the wage scale," he added. "The measures of relief have been palliative only. They may have checked momentarily the disintegration in the public school system of this country but they have not arrested it. All reports show that there must be fundamental changes in the policy of financing education before schools are safe from current deterioration. Normal school enrollment over the nation is the barometer of the educational system. This barometer is now very low. Even the Baltimore increase is reported by Maryland educators to have been inadequate."

Among the larger American cities Louisville and Peterson (N. J.) rank next to Baltimore, with $500 each as the average annual increase. Chicago, Toledo, San Francisco and Kansas City take next place with $450 each. St. Louis, Oakland, Tacoma gave $420 apiece with Spokane close behind with $400. Boston, Los Angeles and Houston awarded a raise of $380, with Atlanta and Minneapolis $360 each. Indianapolis, Cleveland and Des Moines gave $200.

Of cities between 50,000 and 100,000 Terre Haute, Ind., leads with an average teacher advance of $450. Portland, Me., gave $400 and Gary, Ind., $360.

In the third group cities between 25,000 and 50,000 Monrovia, N. J., tops the list with $500. Newton, Mass., being next with $450.

VACCINATION FIGHT AT GREEN BAY TO BE TAKEN INTO COURT

GREEN BAY, Wis.—The vaccination controversy which has been argued in this city for the past three weeks, will be taken into court according to City Health Commissioner F. J. Gosin and State Inspector of Health Dr. C. A. Harper, head of the state board of health.

Dr. Harper said Thursday that Green Bay's school children will either be vaccinated or will stay out of school. A telegram received here Monday states that the state health board is ready to make the Green Bay case a test suit in the Wisconsin courts.

The telegram added that the state board of health will meet January 29, and will take up the Green Bay case. Dr. Gosin said he will not step back an inch from his ultimatum.

UNDER THE CAPITOL DOME

Odds and Ends of State Affairs by William J. Anderson

MADISON, Wis.—Dr. James Healy in charge of the work for the State department of Agriculture reports that a year ago Wisconsin had thirty-one accredited herds and occupied twelfth place in relative position among the states. At the end of October, 1920, Wisconsin moved into second place with 361 accredited herds. The three months just passed has marked the largest volume of work of any quarter since the inception of the work—638 herds were tested containing 19,000 cattle. On January 1, 1921, there were 1336 herds that passed one negative test toward accreditation and 494 tuberculosis-free accredited herds, or about one-eighth of the total of accredited herds in the United States.

To eliminate the profit-sharer who has contributed nothing to the general fund, says Director Nordman of the Division of Markets, is not only the chief problem we have to contend with in our work, but it is the great economic and moral problem of the world. Communities, states, and nations are all inter-dependent. If in a community of a hundred souls only ninety-five contribute to the common fund while one hundred draw their support from it, there is inequitable distribution which must be rectified or injustice will increase.

Nothing was done by the Legislature last week beyond the organization of both houses. Adjournment was taken until Tuesday morning. As the assembly committee will not be announced by Speaker Young until Tuesday it is unlikely that there will be consideration given to any bills this week. The week following, however, committee hearings will be held and the real business of the session entered upon. Milwaukee members will again introduce bills having for their purpose the establishment of certain administrative offices in that city. It is safe to predict that nothing will come of these bills. If Milwaukee secured some administrative offices, Oshkosh, or Appleton or La Crosse would then demand a share, with equal justice. Local pride, rather than administrative needs are responsible for the appearance of these proposals at each session.

"If we are able to eradicate tuberculosis from all the cattle in the counties north of a line drawn straight west from Green Bay, as I confidently believe we shall be within the next five years," said C. D. Nordman, Commissioner of Agriculture, "we shall not only be effecting a saving of a million of dollars per year to the dairymen and stockraisers, but we shall be doing a much greater thing. We shall have cut down tuberculosis among children and adults in that section of the state fully 26 per cent. This work of tuberculosis eradication appeals upon many important grounds."

It cost the state to carry on the "blue sky" department of the Railroad Commission during the past year $15,810, and the department has turned into the state treasury fees to the amount of $58,179 in that time.

Make lighter trucks or limit truck traffic to certain roads is to be the slogan in connection with highway construction. Chief Engineer A. R. Hirst has declared weight beyond seven tons—a load and truck combined—should not be allowed on the state trunk highways. Governor Blaine calls attention to the danger to the new highways from unreasonably heavy trucks, and the campaign against "behemoths" may be said to be launched.

The Executive Committee of the State Bar Association has decided to hold its next annual meeting at Chippewa Falls on June 28, 29 and 30. A new and commodious hotel was recently opened in Chippewa Falls, and Eau Claire will have a new one completed by June, so that between the two cities it will be possible to accommodate a full attendance. A very interesting program for the meeting is now nearly complete.

Within the past three months the traveling library department of the Wisconsin Free-Library Commission, has distributed forty thousand books consisting of books of fiction, history, travel, biography, and practical books on farming and business. These go to sparsely settled country districts of the state. They are placed in the village post office, or barber shop, bank or store, or in a rural school house or cheese factory, wherever they can be reached by the greatest number. There is no charge connected with the supplying of these books. Any community may get them free by applying.

Smallpox as a cause of death, says the State Board of Health, has almost disappeared from the list. Only five fatal cases having been recorded last year, giving a death rate of 0.5 per 100,000. This is about the same rate as for the country as a whole. In the number of cases, however, Wisconsin makes no such enviable showing. Official records show 3,297 cases of this easily preventable disease in 1919, the largest number since 1914 when 3,302 were listed. Universal vaccination is held to be the only means by which smallpox may be eliminated.

Before the week is out the anti-saloon league will have introduced in the Assembly a bill which will add much enforcing power to the Mulberger law. It will in effect amend the latter law to make it comply fully with the Federal statutes. It is deemed by members that there will be no serious opposition to the measure as the fact of national prohibition as a permanent fact has come to be generally accepted.

In this correspondence a few weeks ago there was given the per-capita cost (estimated on a basis of a 2,500,000 population) of maintaining

PRIDE BEFORE A FALL

Stormy weather reminds Attorney Peter Breen of years ago when he was county attorney and he used to travel behind a fast horse named for his office. Then he got the automobile bug and bought a machine. He was on his way to his ranch when he came up with one of his neighbors who was driving his old-fashioned team. "Ah, why don't you get up to date?" asked Breen. The rancher never answered, and the automobile sped on. Half a mile farther on the road something went wrong with the machinery and the thing slipped into a ditch.

Along came the rancher and his team. It was snowing now and the prospects of a night in the ditch looked favorable.

"Get out and haul me to my place," said Breen.

"Fifty dollars," said the rancher.

Pete nearly collapsed. It began snowing harder.

Peter paid the fifty.—Anaconda Standard.

ELK HUNTERS FOILED

HELENA, Mont.—Jake DeHart is smiling. And the elk in Yellowstone are laughing.

There was little snow before Christmas and the open season on elk ends that day. Therein lies the joke.

Jake DeHart is state game warden. He says hundreds of hunters came to Montana to kill elk.

There was plenty of forage in the national reservation because of sunny skies and warm winds.

When there are heavy snows the elk leave the park in search of vegetation.

That happened last winter. Solid ranks of hunters waited at the border of the park for the elk to come out. They slew 4,000.

Most of them took only hides, teeth and antlers. Hundreds of carcasses were left at the scene of the slaughter.

But even if there are early snows next winter, the elk may be safe. Naturalists are trying to get the state legislature to enact a protecting law.

The Ideal Lighting

According to an illuminating engineer, what is wanted today in home illumination is the sort of good lighting that is found on the shady side of a tree on a sunny afternoon. Substitute for the sun a new 100-watt lamp, for the sky the creamy ceiling of a living room and for the tree an opalescent disc, or bowl; from the ceiling you now get a soft radiance which floods the entire room as though it were open to the sky; from the diffusing disc you get a generous addition of light directly beneath having the quality of filtered sunlight. You have approximated the charming effect of mellow radiance that was apparent under the tree.

DON'T NEGLECT A COLD—TURPO WILL CHASE IT OVERNIGHT

This Preparation, Made of Turpentine, Menthol and Camphor, Skillfully Combined in Salve or Ointment Form, Gives Immediate Relief for All Cold Troubles and Congestions

During the past severe winter, when colds and the serious illnesses resulting from the neglect of colds were so prevalent, Turpo, the Turpentine Ointment, protected thousands of homes right in your neighborhood. It is a clear ointment or salve, in which is skillfully combined distilled Turpentine, Camphor and Menthol—remedies known to every doctor and druggist for their value in the treatment of colds and other ills.

Applied externally, Turpo carries the curative properties of these well-known remedies right through the skin to the root of the trouble, affording immediate relief in all colds and congestions. By checking a cold in its early stages Turpo prevents its developing into something more serious, and acts as an antiseptic and healing agent in the nose, throat and air passages.

Mothers find Turpo especially valuable to check children's colds at the very beginning—in this way keeping the youngsters healthy and free from severe colds, catarrh, tonsillitis and other troubles, all through the winter.

Turpo is a recognized household remedy—clean looking, pleasant smelling. It does not stain the clothing or blister the skin. Doctors recommend it because they realize its value in preventing slight colds developing into serious illnesses. No household medicine cabinet should be without a jar of Turpo. It is sold by all druggists in white opal jars with the orange and black label, at 30c and 60c. Your money will be cheerfully refunded if you are not satisfied.

FORGERY SUSPECT IS CAPTURED IN ALMA WOOD CUTTER'S HUT

Winona Chief of Police Makes Arrest at Midnight in "Bad Lands"

WINONA, Minn.—In a wood cutter's cabin in the "bad lands" six miles out of Alma, Wis., at eleven o'clock Wednesday night, John Jimerson, said by police to have a prison record, was arrested by Chief of Police Riebau of Winona and Sheriff Theodore Scharr of Buffalo county on the charge of forgery. The arrest came as a total surprise to Jimerson, and was the climax to what is regarded as one of the cleverest pieces of detective work in recent Winona police history.

The only clue that the local police had to work with was a poor description furnished by an employee of the Hirsch Clothing Co., upon which Jimerson is alleged to have passed a forged check for $53.65 last Friday. With the description, Chief Riebau made the rounds of the railroad stations here, and found that the man wanted bought a ticket to Alma that evening. He wired the description to both the sheriff and city marshal, who recognized it as the description of Jimerson.

Makes Night Trip
Chief Riebau went to Alma Wednesday evening to get his man, whom he believed the local authorities had looked up. However, no arrest had yet been made, and a six mile drive into the "bad lands" east of Alma followed. Jimerson was found in bed in a wood cutter's cabin in the region known in Alma as the "bad lands." He climbed out of bed and demanded "What's there?" In the glare of the chief's flash lights he was forced to dress and was taken to Alma.

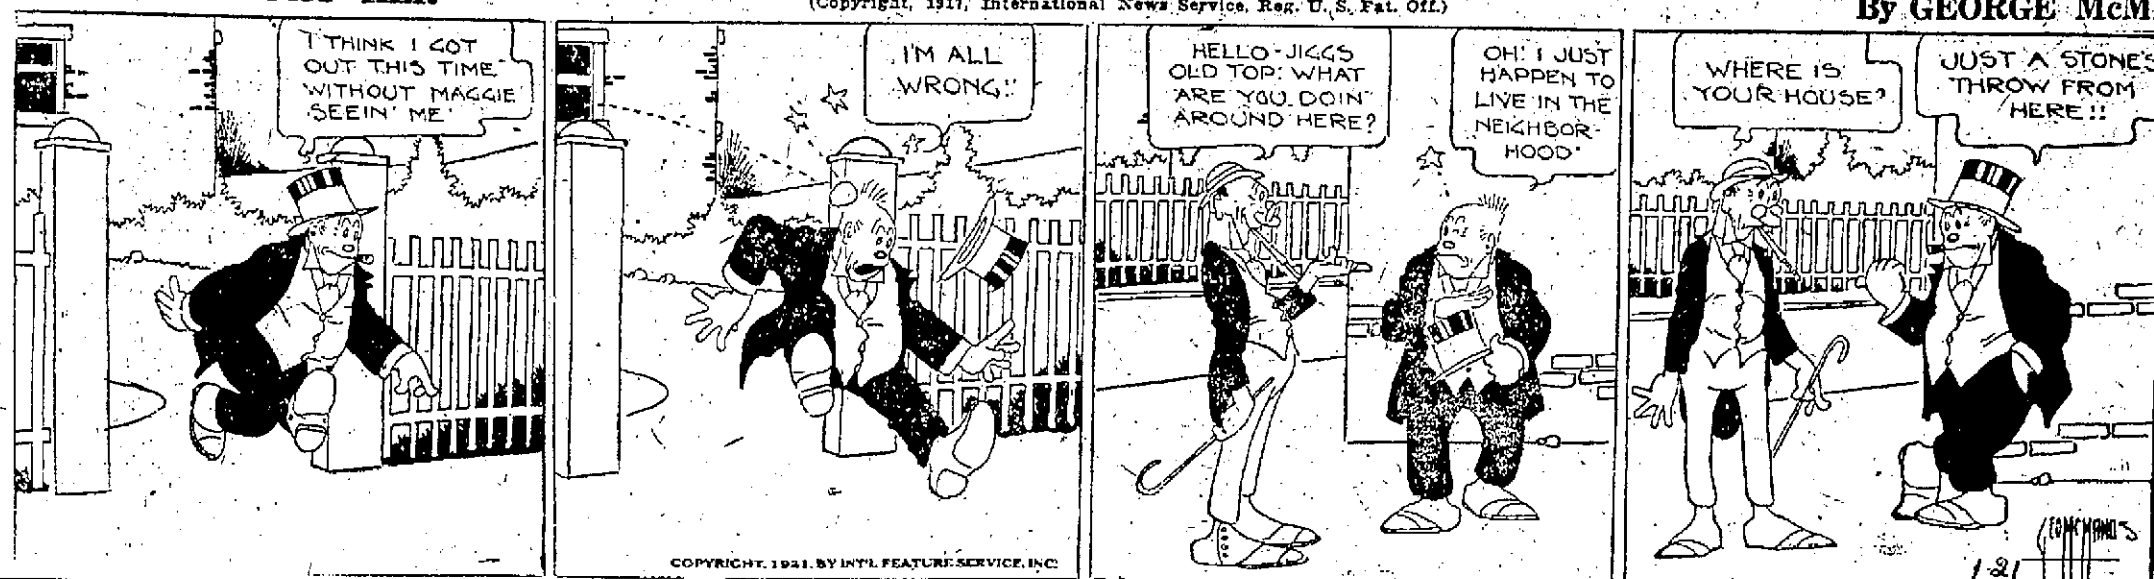

Steps Fast Train
In order to get back to Winona, Chief of Police Riebau wired the Burlington dispatcher's office and arranged for train No. 50, one of that line's fastest trains, to stop at Bluff siding, where he and his prisoner were unloaded into the night.

The police patrol met them there shortly and the prisoner was brought to Winona and locked up at three o'clock Thursday morning. He will probably be arraigned on a charge of forgery, police say. He signed the name of Bill Demison, a former resident of Alma to a check, according to the charge.

Sheriff Suspects Other Cases
Sheriff Scharr of Buffalo county, according to Chief Riebau believes that Jimerson was connected with the robbery of three stores recently in that city. The sheriff told Chief Riebau that Jimerson has served time at Green Bay and Wausau on other charges.

At the Hirsch Clothing Co. he is said to have posed as a well to do farmer from Wisconsin and bought

"HECKLING" THE CANDIDATE

The political aspirant in England must expect to be badgered or "heckled" as he proceeds about the country trying to make friends and votes. It is the prerogative of his auditors. The word, which is also spelled "heckle," was brought over into politics from the flax trade. Prior to the introduction of machinery, heckling was a process carried out by hand. The heckle was an instrument with a wooden base, into which a large number of steel pins were fixed at short distances one from another; these pins projected about four inches through the base, after the style of a hairbrush. The heckler, or heckler, held the flax firmly in his hand, and drew it through the heckle pins,

THE TERRORS OF POISON IVY

Poison ivy has been under investigation of the United States bureau of chemistry and it is declared to be one of the most powerful known in the vegetable world. People have been known to die from too liberal a contact with it. It is present in all parts of the plant, and if taken internally is extremely dangerous. It is described as a violent irritant poison—an oily substance the slightly trace of which on the skin will produce severe inflammation. Some persons are more sensitive to it than others, but nobody is immune. Ivy poisoning may be contracted by touching shoes or clothing that has been in contact with the plant. Dogs or other animals may in like manner convey it. Even fire does not destroy the poison.

Specimens brought inside the house will poison the whole family and if, when the character of the plant is discovered, it is thrown in the fire the results are worse, for the smoke will carry the poison throughout the house.

The Newly Married

Nothing is to me more distasteful than that entire complacency and satisfaction which beam in the countenances of a newly married couple. In that of the lady particularly; it tells you that her lot is disposed of in this world; that you can have no hopes of her. It is true I have none, nor wishes either perhaps, but this is one of those truths which ought, as I said before to be taken for granted, not expressed. — Charles Lamb.

FAMOUS SUPERIOR CASE IS DECIDED AGAINST THE CITY

Utility Law Designed to Remedy Public Evil Says Opinion

MADISON, Wis.—"It requires more courage and character to render just than popular decisions," declared Justice Walter C. Owen of the supreme court, in writing the opinion of the court in the famous case of the Superior Water, Light and Power company, against the city of Superior.

"The public utility law was enacted as a remedy for a well-recognized public evil," said Justice Owen in the opinion. "The relations existing between the respective municipalities and their public utilities were most unsatisfactory. The impotency of the municipalities to deal with them so as to secure adequate and satisfactory service for reasonable charges was abundantly demonstrated. The officers of the municipality lacked the training in the technique of the public utility business which was essential either to protect the interests of the citizens or deal justly with the public utility company. Whether the relations between the municipality and the utility company were those of open war or supine acquiescence on the part of the city to the demands of the company, mattered little to the consumer. Unreasonable demands made by the city as a result of a lack of information concerning the public utility business were as fruitless of just results as mock submission to the ultimatum of the utility. The situation resulted neither in justice to the consumer nor stable business conditions to the utility."

"So it was determined to take from the municipalities, which were not equipped under the circumstances and determine reasonable rates therefor, the regulation and control of public utilities and vest that power with the railroad commission, which body, through its staff of experts, could acquire the information necessary to fix and enforce appropriate standards of service and just and reasonable rates which should adequately compensate the utility for the service rendered. The legislation has been welcomed by the public and the public utility companies alike. It was never suggested that the purpose of the legislation was other than for the promotion of the public interests. That its effect was not to oppress the public service corporations is abundantly shown by the fact that during the four years (from 1907 to 1911) in which the law was effective, many, if not the great majority of these corporations voluntarily surrendered their existing franchises and submitted to the provisions of the law. It is believed that fourteen years of experience has vindicated the law as a measure of great public benefit, although recently, when abnormal industrial and commercial conditions have given rise to a general increase in rates of service, murmurings against the law, or its administration may be heard. But it should not be forgotten that successful regulation must be fearless and fair, and accommodated to the exigencies of changing conditions. Whenever the administrative agency appointed to arbitrate between the public and the utility is influenced by public sentiment rather than considerations of justice, the purpose of the law will fail, not because of its infirmities but because of its weakness and servile administration. Critics should appreciate that private capital devoted to public service is entitled to a fair return, and that it requires more courage and character to render just than popular decisions.

"Conceding that the public interest required it, it was competent for the legislature to repeal the franchises of all public utility corporations. This, however, it did not do. It simply substituted the powers and privileges of the public utility law for those of their existing franchises. It did not interfere with their right to occupy public streets or to continue in their respective business. The tenure of their respective franchises was made indeterminate instead of fixed and limited."

STUDENTS AT "U" ARE ASSIGNED TO CITY LIBRARIES

Twenty-five in Library School to be Given Practical Field Work

MADISON, Wis. — Twenty-five students from the Wisconsin Library School, Madison, will be assigned to 25 public libraries in seventeen Wisconsin towns, for eight weeks beginning Feb. 3, to receive practical field training. Each student will take assignments in two libraries and the faculty of the school will supervise the work and visit other libraries as field representatives of the state free library commission.

The students will help fill vacancies and will act as staff assistants in the following libraries: Barron, Green Bay, La Crosse, Milwaukee Normal School, Milwaukee Public Library, Milwaukee First National Bank, Neshanic, Oshkosh Normal School, Oshkosh, Racine, Rice Lake, Stevens Point, Stoughton, Virgo, West Bend, Wisconsin Rapids, Wisconsin Legislative reference library, and the Wisconsin library commission traveling department.

The field work by library school students has been carried for four years. It is considered an experimental test of the ability of the students as well as a practical service to the libraries of the state.

And Then the Row Started

"Do you think that young man good enough to marry our daughter?" asked the mother.

"I guess so," replied the father. "You know your folks used to say I wasn't good enough for you."

"I know. But my folks were right about it." — Detroit Free Press.

Uncle Sam

INFORMATION EDITOR, WASHINGTON, D. C. "Uncle Sam, M. D." will answer questions of general interest relating to hygiene, or disease. Address: U. S. Public Health Service, Washington, D. C.

All systems of heating cause some air movement. Open windows, open doors and grate fires also promote air movement. Air movement is extremely important.

The most effective system of ventilation consists of opening windows. Cross ventilation by means of two windows, or a window and a door in opposite sides of the room, is particularly effective. Opening enough to cause a current is all that is required.

The extent to which windows are to be opened in our sleeping apartments must depend on outside atmospheric conditions.

Everyone should sleep in a room with open windows. In this way an ample supply of fresh air can be secured for eight hours out of the 24 at least.

A simple method of securing fresh air from a window is to raise the window two or three inches and place a neatly-fitting board under it.

This will prevent a direct draft and permit of a free current of air coming in between the upper and lower sashes.

Another excellent method of ventilation is to place in an open window an ordinary window screen covered with cheesecloth. Two or three layers may be used. This arrangement breaks the wind and keeps out the snow. The heat loss is very little greater than the loss by radiation from the surface of pane glass.

If one depends on simply opening the window, from a half inch to an inch may be sufficient on very cold nights. If you hold your hand opposite a half-inch opening, you will find the current of air coming in is much greater than that which one or two persons could possibly inhale and exhale constantly.

There is nothing gained by throwing the window open to a degree beyond that already suggested, providing there is sufficient difference in the temperature outside and in.

Anemia

What is anemia? Is it curable? Anemia, after all, is only a symptom. In the treatment, it is important to determine the cause of the condition. There are many different causes and only a physician can arrive at a satisfactory diagnosis.

The Public Health Service has no bulletins dealing with anemia. Merely to indicate to you how important it is to find the cause of the anemia, if possible, let me tell you some of the common causes of this condition: Malaria, lead poisoning, hook worm, Bright's disease, repeated hemorrhages, auto-intoxication, tuberculosis and cancer.

Do not let this list cause you any unnecessary alarm. I have mentioned this to show how impossible it is to give you satisfactory advice in the shape of a reply through the column.

Influenza

Is there a vaccine to prevent influenza? I had the disease in 1918 and am afraid of a recurrence.

Many have asked this question. Up to the present time no vaccine has been discovered for which we can claim anything definite so far as the prevention of epidemic influenza is concerned.

Until we discover the germ that is responsible for the disease, we cannot prepare a vaccine to ward off attacks. But you may be glad to know there is reason to believe that a previous attack of influenza apparently confers a certain degree of immunity to another attack. Just how long this immunity lasts is not known.

FIVE CENT CIGAR GONE

WASHINGTON. — The old time five-cent cigar is gone forever. Unless tariff statistics levies on tobacco drop, manufacturers and importers told the house tariff framers. The gloomy forecast emerged from a smoke screen—cigar smoke—that rolled and eddied about the ways and means committee room, arising from samples brought by the tobacco men and promptly put to the test by the committee.

EXTEND COAL HEARINGS

WASHINGTON. — The senate manufacturers committee Friday was prepared for an indefinite extension of hearing the Calder bill for regulation of the coal industry as the result of fresh fields of inquiry opened up by charges Thursday that the New York wholesale coal association had opposed alleged coal profiteers.

Announcement that the hearings would be indefinitely extended was made by Chairman La Follette.

WORKERS ACCEPT CUT

VANCOUVER, Wash. — The Metal Trades council representing 2500 men employed at the Standifer Construction company's shipyard here have voted to accept a reduction in pay of from six to eight cents an hour rather than the company should reduce the number of its employees.

Button Hook as Tool

Among the tools in the tool kit should be an ordinary button hook. Among its many uses are, especially, fishing out small parts from inaccessible places and pulling out cotter pins. For the latter use it is about the best tool that could be used.

The plow is mentioned in the old testament as having been used at a very early period in the life of man.

MISTOOK HUSBAND FOR BURGLAR AND SHOT SAYS WOMAN

CLEVELAND, Ohio. — Mrs. Maudie Miller, 36, shot and killed her husband, Peter J. Miller, fraternal lodge organizer, in the vestibule of their home Thursday.

Mrs. Miller told the police she thought her husband was a burglar, various attempts having been made to enter the house.

"She told the police she fired one shot, which struck her husband in the temple when he broke open the front door of their home after trying several windows in an effort to gain admittance."

"Police say she admitted being married before, saying her former husband was Frank Green of Chicago, who she said, died there recently."

Mrs. Miller told police she was going to leave her husband because of their quarrels, saying she intended returning to her parents' home in Wisconsin Friday.

Without Anti-Freeze

Without an anti-freeze solution in the radiator, during cold weather, not more than two or three hours' protection should be expected from a radiator cover. If the car is left out in the cold for a longer time, the engine should be run for a few minutes at intervals of two or three hours.

MAJORITY OF BADGER TEACHERS IN SERVICE LESS THAN 5 YEARS

Annual Salaries in State. Average $798 Says Report of Legislative Committee

BY FRED L. HOLMES
MADISON, Wis.—That the great majority of Wisconsin teachers entering the service remain five years or less is shown by some interesting tables that have been compiled by the legislative committee which has been investigating the teachers' retirement fund law. These tables apply only to data compiled about Wisconsin teachers.

Out of 14,391 teachers in the state from whom statistics were gathered, 3,276 taught only one year, 2,850 two years, 2,114 three years, 1,491 four years, and 1,065 five years. After the five year period of teaching the number of teachers in the service declines at almost a geometrical ratio. Only 251 are in the service at 10 years; 59 at 20 years; 28 at 30 years; 3 at 40 years; and 2 at the close of 47 years of service.

Statistics from the same Wisconsin teachers show that the average annual salary is $798. For the first year of teaching the average annual salary of the teachers is $690; at five years of service, $800; at ten years, $880; at 15 years, $1,195; at 20 years, $1,190; at 30 years, $1,145; at 40 years, $1,300, and at 46 years, $1,300.

The data gathered disclosed that at the end of sixteen years of service the average teacher was receiving $1,200 annually and that this amount remained practically stationary until the teachers had had over 35 years of service. After 37 years of service teachers were receiving an annual salary of $1,250 and that at 47 years of service the average annual salary scale had reached $1,350; after that age the salary scale gradually declined.

"These facts show that teachers of the state are not paid as high salaries as others in professions that require less training," said Senator Skogmo. "To keep teachers in the profession at such salaries requires an incentive like the teachers' retirement fund law. The persons who like teaching may continue to teach at a lower salary than otherwise, when it is certain that the state will pay the annual annuity sufficient to meet general expenses at the end of a long period of teaching service."

COMMUNISTS OPPOSE ELECTION OF BOESS AS BERLIN MAYOR

BERLIN—Communist members of the Berlin city council staged a noisy demonstration when it was announced Thursday night that Dr. Gustav Boess had been elected lord mayor of the Greater City. They accused the majority socialists of "betraying socialism."

Dr. Boess received 114 votes against 95 cast for Dr. Weyl, independent socialist, receiving the solid support of the majority socialists and all of the bourgeois factions except members of the National People's party, who joined the independent socialists and the communists in supporting Dr. Weyl. The nationalists defend their union with the ultra radicals by declaring the bourgeoisie of Greater Berlin had been "asleep on election day and therefore deserved a radical lord mayor."

MOTOR KNOCKS

What Different Kinds of Knocks Mean

A light knock running at high speed invariably indicates a loose connecting rod bearing.

A heavy, dull pounding running at slow speed with the motor under load purposes to be a loose crankshaft bearing.

A motor laboring on hill or pull, due to the motor running too slow on direct drive, will cause pounding or knocking.

Carbon knock: excessive amount of carbon gathered in cylinders.

A light clicking or tapping sound is often contributed to too much play or space between valve push rod and valve stem.

A spark knock is often caused by operator carelessly advancing same too far.

DON'T SUFFER WITH NEURALGIA

Use Soothing Musterole

When those sharp pains go shooting through your head, when your skull seems as if it would split, just rub a little Musterole on your temples and neck. It draws out the inflammation, soothes away the pain, usually giving quick relief.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Better than a mustard plaster and does not blister.

Many doctors and nurses frankly recommend Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet—colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia). It is always dependable.

OUTLOOK IS BRIGHT GOOD TIMES COMING

Local Man Optimistic After Attending Convention of Business Men

"Men in touch with business conditions in all sections of the country report that better times are on the way."

That is the message C. E. Jamison, local representative of The National Cash Register Company, brought back from the convention of the Hundred Per Cent Club of that organization at Dayton, Ohio. This club is composed of men making 100 per cent or more of their year's quota of business. More than 800 sales agents and salesmen from all parts of the United States and Canada were in attendance at the convention. Foreign managers from Germany, England, Australia, Cuba, and Porto Rico were also present.

A Time for Judgment
"The tone of the entire convention was optimistic," said Mr. Jamison. "Our first vice-president, J. H. Barringer, made the following statement: 'We are optimistic but we are going to back up that optimism with safe, sound business judgment. We have been told that conditions are not changing but that they have changed. Things are getting back to normal, and now is the time to plan for the future, and go forward.'"

E. C. Forbes, editor of Forbes magazine, and financial writer of national prominence, made an inspiring talk concerning business conditions at the convention. He stated that almost every fundamental condition in this country is making for sound, healthy prosperity, and that, while one year ago things looked pretty black, now the outlook is decidedly optimistic.

According to Mr. Forbes, the readjustment has been pretty thoroughly completed in many things, such as cotton, rubber, wool, copper, and silk. Steel, automobiles, pianos, rugs and carpets have not yet completed readjustment, but the nation has turned the corner in the basic things.

Forbes emphasized the fact that money is already becoming more plentiful, and that ninety per cent of financial and industrial trouble is behind us.

ART'S HEART ACHES

But M. Benedite Says "She Will Come Back"
CHICAGO—Art went to pot during the war.

But it is staging a comeback now. That's what M. Leonce, Benedite, director of the Luxembourg and Rodin art museums, now in Chicago, thinks. Says he: "Art, she aches with the war! She feels the brutality of the trenches! It is horrible! But, she will come back. She is coming back. Already we feel that it is so. The new art: it will be so grand!"

Riviera—Marshall Neilson's "Dinty"
Maestros—Pauline Frederick in "The Woman in Room Thirteen"
Maestros—Pauline Frederick in "The Woman in Room Thirteen"
Maestros—Pauline Frederick in "The Woman in Room Thirteen"

PAULINE FREDERICK—MAJESTIC
 So tense are some of the emotional scenes in "The Woman in Room Thirteen," the latest Goldwyn picture in which Miss Pauline Frederick is starring at the Majestic theater, that most of the scenes were filmed in the quietness and solitude of the night. Miss Frederick found that she could secure more opportunity for concentration on her work when the big Goldwyn studios near Los Angeles were almost deserted and the other players were seeking diversion or a well earned rest. So it was that "The Woman in Room Thirteen" came to be made in the quietest of circumstances. The story is one of mystery and the night was peculiarly suited to its theme. On the same program are two very good acts of vaudeville and the Fox News.

"DINTY"—RIVOLTI
 Marjorie Daw, the pretty little motion picture actress, who plays a leading part in "Dinty" showing today and Saturday at the Rivoli theater, declares she went through the most strenuous experience of her career during the making of that film.

She plays the part of Ruth White, daughter of Judge Whitely, who has incurred the deadly enmity of "King" Dork, Malay half-breed and leader of a gang of highlanders. Dork kidnaps the judge's daughter and plans a terrible revenge for the sentence of his son. Ruth is strapped to a table under a swinging pendulum with a razor edge. The fiendish contrivance drops just an inch every time it swings, coming nearer and nearer the stricken victim. "Dinty" (Gulliver), a newswoman, and his Chinese friends, however, bring about a rescue in the nick of time and Ruth is restored to her father and fiancé. As an added feature for tomorrow afternoon the Rivoli will present matinee dances which may be enjoyed by all who attend the matinee without additional charge. The dance starts at 4 o'clock and continues until five-thirty. The Beyerstadt orchestra will play the latest popular music for the dance.

HOUDINI—RIVIERA
 Houdini, the famous illusionist and self-liberator, in a thrilling screen melodrama, "Terror Island," will be the attraction at the Riviera today. To save some sunken treasures of ships that have been sent to the bottom forms one motive of the tale. But there is, in addition, a skull-shaped pearl upon which a man's life depends; a lovely girl, kidnapped by her villainous relatives; a submarine built on a startling plan; South Sea Island adventures—enough thrills, it is declared, to make the ordinary adventure picture seem tame in comparison. Above all, Houdini himself in underwater stunts that draw upon his exceptional powers to the last degree is the outstanding feature of the picture. He escapes from a closely bound safe while under water, fights a spashing battle with a diver on the bed of the ocean, and performs other hair-raising feats that are declared to surpass anything he has ever done on the stage. Lila Lee is the leading woman for Houdini.

ANITA STEWART—CASINO
 The fact that the gambling fever is a hereditary disease finds unusual demonstration in "The Sins of Mothers," a picture, "The Sins of Mothers," which Anita Stewart in the stellar role will be presented at the Casino theater today. Miss Stewart plays the role of Tricie Raymond, a girl who as the picture opens, is in her early childhood. It is revealed that her mother, a capable, wealthy widow, is a scientific gambler who secretly owns a fashionable gambling resort which is being conducted under another name. Even as a child Tricie gives evidence of suffering the gambling taint. The mother, horrified at the evidence of this, sends the girl to a convent for seven years. At the end of this period it appears that Tricie has been purged by religious training of the gambling instinct, but also has been thoroughly submerged in religious thought.

EUGENE O'BRIEN—STRAND
 Eugene O'Brien's new starring vehicle for Selznick pictures is "The Figurehead," by John Lynch, which comes to the Strand theater today. It is a tale of love and political intrigue, which gives O'Brien an opportunity to appear in an entirely new role—as a "silk-stocking Willie," who is put up by a secret combination of apparently rival bosses as a candidate for mayor who will be easily beaten by the "machine" nominee. The young aristocrat has really accepted the nomination only as an amusement, but, fired by a transforming love, he puts up a great fight and throws fear into the hearts of the bosses, who try all sorts of strategy to get him to withdraw. Finally, they try to "frame" him and involve him in a manufactured scandal, and it is then that he shows the great qualities which heretofore were latent in him.

"OUT OF THE SNOWS"—BIJOU
 "Out of the Snows," now playing at the Bijou, tells a virile story of the far north, with Ralph Ince and Zena Keefe playing the leading roles. The story centers around Robert Holaday, a member of the royal north-west mounted police, known to the Indians of the Hudson bay fur country as "Stout Man." He is engaged to Ruth Hardy, a founding and student at San Gabriel university. On the opening night of the Quebec carnival, Ruth learns that her father, an outlaw fur trader, was killed in a scrimmage with the Canadian mounted police by the man to whom she is engaged. Ruth is stunned by the news, and breaks her engagement. And Holaday in extricating himself from the crime, goes through a series of incidents that prove his innocence and restore his claims to Ruth's hand.

"TARZAN"—BIJOU
 A particularly interesting cast was assembled for "The Revenge of Tarzan," which will be seen at the Bijou Sunday. Gene Pollard is "Tarzan." He is young, six foot two and a half inches in height, weighs 215 pounds, has a chest expansion of four and three-quarter inches, and a thirty-eight waist—from which statistics it may be judged he bears a pretty close resemblance to his fiction-prototype, the ape-man hero of Edgar Rice Burroughs' famous book. George Rommain, who plays the part of the "Count de Conde," was born in Bordeaux. He played with Marjorie Rambeau in "The Eyes of Youth" and with Leo Ditchstein in "The Great Lover." Frankling B. Coates plays the role of "Paul O'Arnot," "Tarzan's" best friend. He is a recognized actor and an explorer of note. His expert knowledge of jungle land makes him especially valuable to the company.

"LISTEN LESTER" SHOW WITH MUCH MELODY

"Listen Lester," John Cort's musical dancing comedy, will bring the same happiness and buoyancy to La Crosse that it did on the opening night when it started New York theaters with eyes and ears, and all the faculties they could summon to their aid. This spontaneous extravaganza will be the offering at the La Crosse theater Wednesday, January 26th.

There are many dancing melodies in "Listen Lester," such as "When the Shadows Fall," "Feather Your Nest," "Little Something New," "I'd Love to Wait for You," "Show Me a To" and "Sweet Stuff."

Luncheon was served from a daintily appointed table, covers being laid for eleven. A basket of flowers centered the table, while at each place was a heart shaped name card together with a kewpie, bedecked with varied colored ribbons in rainbow effect. Strings of hearts and miniature angels were festooned from the chandelier to the corners of the room in gay and festive manner. The chair of the honor guest was designated by a large tulip bow, which held in its knot a pretty corsage bouquet. At the close of the luncheon a basket filled with pretty parcels was placed before the bride-elect, which were opened amid much merriment. The guests were the Misses Granke, Nellie Larson, Irene Ciesco, Jane Roggen, Dolly Allen, Cora Larson and Mesdames Ferdinand Roth, Fay Ramsey, Delbert Arvaz and N. R. Schuetz of Beloit, Wis.

Filling Cooling System

If water is found to be low, the cooling system should not be filled too suddenly while the engine is hot. Pour in about a half a bucket of water while the engine is running and wait a few minutes before adding more. Cold water coming into contact with red-hot cylinders will crack them.

Effect of Spark Knock

Spark knock occurs when the engine is laboring, especially when going up hill. The result of it is to flatten the bearings and weaken the power of the engine. To avoid this, the spark should be retarded as soon as the knock is heard.

IF SKIN BREAKS OUT, IS FIERY, ITCHY OR ROUGH, USE SULPHUR

Just the moment you apply Mentho-Sulphur to an itching, burning or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a noted skin specialist. This sulphur preparation, made into a pleasant cold cream, gives such a quick relief, even to fiery eczema, that nothing has ever been found to take its place.

Because of its germ destroying properties, it quickly subdues the itching, cools the irritation and heals the eczema right up, leaving a clear, smooth skin in place of ugly eruptions, rash, pimples or roughness. You do not have to wait for improvement. It quickly shows. You can get a little jar of Mentho-Sulphur at any drug store.

SCHOOLS OF STATE ENTHUSIASTIC OVER HEALTH CRUSADE

MADISON, Wis.—That Wisconsin will have a banner year in modern health crusade work is indicated by the large number of schools that have already enrolled, and the interest and enthusiasm being manifested by superintendents, teachers, public health nurses, Parent-Teachers, and

Red Cross organization, and the children themselves. Endorsed by Superintendent C. P. Cary, who urges the schools to co-operate to the fullest extent the crusade is being recognized more and more by school people and nurses as the best possible means of interesting children in health, and the most practical and effective method of instilling public health habits.

F. Scott Fitzgerald's Realistic
story of American College Life

Read of Amory's Three Loves: His "Baby" Love

Amory leaned over quickly and kissed Myra's cheek. He had never kissed a girl before and his lips tasted curiously. Then their lips brushed like young wild flowers in the wind.

"We're awful," rejoiced Myra gently. Sudden revulsion seized Amory; disgust, loathing for the whole incident.

"Kiss me again!" Her voice came out of the great void.

"I don't want to," he heard himself saying.

"I don't want to!" he repeated passionately.

Myra sprang up, her cheeks pink with bruised vanity.

"I hate you," she cried. "I'll tell Mamma you kissed me and she won't let me play with you!"

His "Slicker" Love

"Isabelle!" His whisper blended in the music, and they seemed to float nearer together. Her breath came faster.

"Can't I kiss you, Isabelle—Isabelle?" Lips half parted, she turned her head to him in the dark. Suddenly the sound of running footsteps surged toward them. Quick as a flash, Amory reached up and turned on the light, and when the door opened he was turning over the magazines on the table, while she sat without moving, serene and unembarrassed. But her heart was beating wildly, and she felt somehow as if she had been deprived. It was evidently over.

His "College Man" Love

He sat in the big chair and held out his arms so that she could nestle inside them.

His lips moved lazily over her face.

"You taste so good," he sighed, and held her closer.

"Amory," she whispered, "when you're re-ready for me, I'll marry you."

ASK EDUCATIONAL BONUS FOR SHORT SERVICE SOLDIERS

Bill Would Fix Sixty Days as Sufficient to Qualify Under the Law

BY FRED L. HOLMES
MADISON, Wis.—About 100 additional soldier boys will be given education in the state institutions of Wisconsin if the legislature enacts the bill offered by Assemblyman A. E. Matheson, Janesville, providing that 60 days of service shall be sufficient to qualify as a soldier to come under the provisions of the law. The present law provides for 90 days of service. E. A. Fitzpatrick, secretary of the board of education, which has charge of the soldier bonus law says that there are pending in the office approximately 100 applications of soldiers who have had between 60 and 90 days of service.

The soldier bonus law was enacted at a special session of the legislature two years ago. It provides that the soldiers having more than 90 days of service not including S. A. T. C. service shall be eligible under the law.

MORGAN STARTS ACTION AGAINST STORAGE HOUSES

Files Suit Against State Concerns for Violation of Cold Storage Regulations

MADISON, Wis. — State action against cold storage and ware houses was started Friday with the filing of papers against a number of companies, according to announcement from the office of Attorney General Morgan.

Counts listed against the concerns are prosecuted total 170 and the fines if adjudged guilty will amount to several thousand dollars, it is said.

Under state law, storage houses are not permitted to keep food longer than one year without first obtaining permission from the dairy and food commissioner, who after inspection, may extend the limit sixty days.

Most of the litigation has resulted over stored eggs, which have been kept in violation of the law, in order to take advantage of the prevailing high prices.

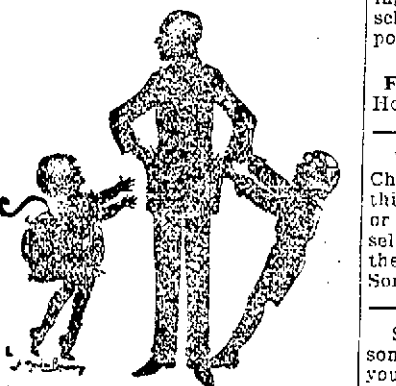

Recently G. J. Weigle, dairy and food commissioner, requested the attorney general to take action in the storage cases decided to prosecute.

Profiteering or conspiracy are not at the bottom of the charges. The state in order to safeguard the health of its citizens, has established a limit on the length of time food may remain in storage. Violations of this provision are being prosecuted.

Story Told by the Eyebrows

An Italian doctor has been making a study of the eyebrow, and he has found that in women in general there are nearly always short bushy hairs nearly meeting in the space between the eyebrows and a noticeable thinning toward the external side. In epileptic women the eyebrow is made up of two portions: the inside is in the form of a comma, of which the tail enters in the two branches of the external portion in the form of a Y. In epileptic men one often sees large tufted, heavily haired eyebrows, united at the median line. In manic depressive cases the absence of the outer third of the eyebrow is common.

The mandrill, an African baboon, was well known to the ancients.

DISMISS CHARGES AGAINST AUTHER EVIDENCE LACKING

Mrs. Franzen Appears in Madison and is Served With Divorce Papers

MADISON, Wis. — The charge of larceny, preferred by the state against Pierre P. Auther, who eloped with the wife of Philip M. Franzen, university painter, two weeks ago, was dismissed Thursday afternoon about three o'clock on motion of District Attorney T. C. Lewis, who told the court that in view of the testimony given by the plaintiff the state could not successfully prosecute.

The court room was packed with spectators. Mrs. Auther arrived on the scene from Highland Park, Ill., with her small daughter.

Mrs. Franzen came into the courtroom during the trial. She had arrived in Madison at noon from Milwaukee, where she has now established a residence.

Franzen served divorce papers on his wife Thursday. It was understood that she will not fight the case.

A Short Story on Artificial Silk

The first mention of record of an attempt to make artificial silk dates back to the year 1734. In that year a French scientist, Reaumur, experimented with certain laces and varnishes, which he forced through small holes in a steel die. The resulting filaments were silk-like in appearance, but no commercial use was made of his invention. The subject lay dormant until Andemars, a Swedish chemist, developed a process for making artificial silk in the year 1835. He dissolved wood cellulose, obtained from mulberry trees, in a mixture of alcohol and ether. The threads after having been forced through dies had a silky lustre; practically the same process is used today, substituting cotton cellulose and a great variety of wood cellulose for that obtained from the mulberry tree.

IRISH QUESTION IS EXPECTED TO COME UP IN LEGISLATURE

Beloit Man Registers as Lobbyist for Friends of Irish Freedom

MADISON, Wis. — Intimation that the Irish question will be brought to the attention of state solons was given when D. Moore of Beloit registered with Secretary of State Hall as a lobbyist in the interests of the Friends of Irish Freedom. William C. Dean of Madison, editor of the Forward Press, registered as legislative agent interested in prohibition. Three Madison women signed as lobbyists for the Wisconsin League of Progressive Women.

Secretary of State Hall transmitted to both houses proposed constitutional amendments referred to this legislature after approval by that of 1910. The amendments are those permitting a sheriff to succeed himself allowing increase in city debt, providing the governor's salary shall be fixed by law at not less than $5,000 (that is permitting it to be raised about $5,000) providing that the lieutenant governor's salary shall be fixed by law giving the legislature power to provide that a verdict may be rendered by five-sixths of a jury, permitting state borrowing for land settlement, providing home rule for cities, permitting bonds for highways. They were referred to the judiciary committee.

COST OF HIGHWAYS

The cost of building and maintaining state highways may be gleamed from the expenditures of Pennsylvania at present. Maintenance of a running foot, and construction of a mile of roadway costs $62,500, requires $5000 a mile, almost a dollar about $12 a running foot.
